

Pet project

Sylvia Marshall, star of BBC One's Britain's Empty Homes has launched a new website in a bid to help clueless Brits repair, redecorate and renovate their homes and gardens. Named after her pet Yorkshire Terrier, Bussy, www.BussyDogDIY.com is packed with insider tips and practical advice about large and small-scale projects, such as changing a tap and hanging wallpaper. The site also includes a handy trade search with an up-to-date directory of almost 6,000 certified tradesmen across the UK, plus a forum where visitors can upload and answer each other's DIY questions. Visit www.BussyDogDIY.com for more.
